Access to Cash.

Supporting access to cash for our customers.

As part of the requirements for the Access to Cash legislation, all banks are responsible for maintaining access to cash across the UK. LINK will be working with banks and local communities to assess whether there are any access to cash gaps across the UK, to make sure customers have convenient access to vital cash services when they need it.

Who are LINK?

LINK are funded by the UK's banks and building societies to assess needs, provide new services and carry out cash access assessments to make sure people in every corner of the UK can access cash.

LINK also offer a number of services to customers of most UK banks and building societies such as a UK wide cash machine network.

Access to cash assessments.

When a bank announces a branch closure, or when a community requests a cash access assessment, it's important that local communities are kept engaged to make sure they have appropriate access to cash. We work with LINK to carry out assessments of locations to check if they need better access to cash services. These reviews will be published and available on the LINK website at link.co.uk

If you're concerned there may be an access to cash gap in your area or you'd like to find out how your community can have better access to cash, you can request an access to cash assessment at link.co.uk/helping-you-access-cash/request-access-to-cash

To check if LINK have already made an assessment for access to cash in a particular area, and made a recommendation for improvement visit link.co.uk/our-assessments

Want to know how decisions are made about cash?

Helping you to keep your money safe.

It's important to remain vigilant and wary of unexpected phone calls, texts or emails from fraudsters. Here are some tips on keeping your money safe. For more information on recognising fraud visit tsb.co.uk/recognisefraud

Take your time.

Always question what you've been asked to do. Don't be rushed by a caller or an email – if they're genuine, they'll never be pushy. Your bank will always give you time to think.

Think 'Can this be real?'

Ask yourself 'Would my bank or the police really ask me to do this?' If in any doubt, call your bank on the number on your card and speak to the fraud team.

Keep your PC secure.

If anyone contacts you out of the blue asking to access your computer remotely, they are probably trying to access your bank account. Never give a stranger access to your computer, laptop, tablet or smartphone.

Beware of scam accounts.

Some criminals try and scare you into sending or moving your money into a 'safe account' or a 'police account'. Your bank or the police would never ask you to do this. These kinds of accounts are always scams.

If in doubt, call them back.

If you get a suspicious phone call, hang up. Call a friend to check that the line isn't still open. Then call the company back from the number listed on their website, or if it's your bank, the number on the back of your card.

Be wary of 'too good to be true'.

Criminals tempt people with the promise of a cheap deal or easy money. So always buy from reputable websites and be sure to check the small print.

Talk to someone.

Seek impartial advice before making any investment. Your bank will always be happy to help you spot a potential scam. Also, chat with family and friends. If they have concerns, you may want to reconsider.

Stay safe online.

When paying online, look for the padlock security symbol in the address bar. This means the website is secure and encrypted. If you use sites like eBay, never make payments outside of their process.
